Tree Plantation Strategy

The recent surge in urbanization and industrialization has brought about increased comfort and luxury in human life, but it has also triggered various environmental and ecological challenges. In response to this, educational institutions are growing more attuned to environmental concerns, introducing eco-campus concepts to promote sustainability. Academic institutes are now required to implement waste minimization plans to uphold campus cleanliness. To assess the environmental performance of the institution and explore potential solutions for transforming it into an eco-friendly campus, the college authorities have embarked on a strategic tree plantation initiative. Trees play a crucial role as essential resources for the survival of various living beings, providing food and shelter to a diverse range of organisms, including animals, birds, insects, and fungi. Essentially, they contribute to the stability of the entire ecosystem. The college has planted more than 500 plants for attaining the Green Campus status with the following aims and objectives:

- Creating green spaces and pathways to fulfill the aesthetic and recreational needs of the community.
- Enhancing the visual appeal of the college campus for its scenic charm.
- Contributing to the reduction of global warming.
- Minimizing surface run-off and preventing soil erosion within the campus.
- Lowering temperatures and increasing humidity levels.
- Alleviating noise pollution within the campus environment.
